Life for 'wicked' carer who killed

A CARER has been jailed for the "wicked" murder of a pensioner who left her £340,000 in his will.

The family of Paul Norfolk may never know why Bunthawee Rimmer dealt the 77-year-old at least a dozen "fierce" blows with a claw hammer.

Rimmer, who tried to cut her own throat after the attack, was handed a life sentence last Friday and must serve a minimum of 11 years, for murdering the man she was supposed to be looking after.

Mr Justice Saunders, sentencing at Ipswich Crown Court, said: "The defendant armed herself with her hammer and struck Paul Norfolk at least 12 fierce blows."

"It was a wicked thing to do as I am satisfied the defendant recognised and led to her trying to kill herself."

After the attack, Rimmer, 49, stabbed herself in the chest, tried to cut her throat and took an overdose and was found next to Mr Norfolk in his blood-spattered bed in the house they shared in Castle Lane, Haverhill, on December 30, 2011.

In a statement, Mr Norfolk's family said: "Paul was a very generous, kind and sympathetic man. He was liked and respected by everyone who knew him especially by his neighbours and their children by whom he was affectionately called 'uncle'."

"He was always ready to help others."

Rimmer had married a close friend of the victim and after her husband's death in 2010, she moved into Mr Norfolk's home to care for his wife, Esme.

When Mrs Norfolk moved into a care home, the defendant continued to care for Mr Norfolk and he changed his will in her favour.

Rimmer, originally from Thailand, denied murder on the grounds of diminished responsibility but the jury returned a guilty verdict on a majority of 10 to one after more than seven hours.

Interim Det Supt Jes Fry, of the Norfolk and Suffolk major investigation team, said: "The court has heard how Ms Rimmer took the life of a much-loved brother and godfather – sadly for the family and friends of Paul Norfolk, they were not able to hear why this happened from Rimmer herself."

Boy who head-butted officer avoids custody

A TEENAGER who head-butted a police officer and admitted a string of other offences has avoided a custodial sentence.

The 16-year-old, who cannot be named for legal reasons, appeared at Bury St Edmunds youth court yesterday for sentence, had previously appeared before magistrates who adjourned his case for pre-sentence reports to be compiled with all options open – including custody.

The teenager admitted a charge of assaulting Pc Simon Bourne at Haverhill, in April, burglary from a neighbour's house, stealing computer equipment, games and DVDs and interfering with a vehicle. He also asked for 28 other offences, including thefts from motor vehicles and criminal damage, to be taken into account.

Chairman of the magistrates Sylvia Roberts told him: "Last time you appeared here it was a serious consideration that you would be sent down."

"It is not long before you will be classified as an adult and you need to be fairly concentrated about what happens in the next few months to see that you go ahead in the right direction."

David Bryant, prosecuting, said the first offence to occur was the burglary, when an X-Box, Playstation other electrical items and games were stolen from a house where the teenager's footprint was identified on a police database.

He later admitted taking the key to the house from a car parked nearby and using it to get in.

Later the same month, Pc Simon Bourne arrested the teenager on suspicion of an offence, but when a vehicle came to transport him the youth refused to get in, and then head-butted the officer, striking him on the cheek.

In May, he was seen in a group of youths inside a parked minibus, rummaging around inside it.

Nick Wray, for the teenager, said his client had taken part in Operation Converter, taking police to places where he had committed crimes, some of which had not been reported.

Mr Wray said: "It has given closure to a lot of people who now know their crimes have been detected."

"It also gives him a fresh start. He has committed no serious violence. This assault was a momentary act of frustration and aggression for which he immediately expressed remorse."

"He is at the stage where his offending can be diverted, this is not a young man who is beyond the pale."

Magistrates made the teenager subject to a two-year youth rehabilitation order, including a six-month intensive supervision order, ordered him to pay £100 compensation to Pc Bourne and to observe a three-month night-time curfew.

Youngsters have a ball

TINY tots put on their mortar boards for a graduation ceremony then enjoyed their own evening graduation ball.

The Stepping Stones pre-school group in Haverhill held the events for more than 30 children who have graduated and will all go to 'big' school in September.

Town Mayor of Haverhill Cllr Pat Hanlon attended the ball and gave out the certificates to the children.

Leader Elaine McManus said: "The staff would like to thank all the parents for their part in making the Graduation Ball a great success, thanks also to Diane and Sue for the entertainment and to Couplands school for the loan of the main hall for the evening."

Stepping Stones will run their Summer Fun Club during the holidays and to book a place, call (01440) 703833.

There is also a list for the September intake, so call the number to book a child in for the new school term.

"Whilst the weapons and medication packets found in the bedroom tell part of the story, we may never know exactly what happened before Mr Norfolk's death, though it would appear from his position that he was asleep when he was attacked.

"I would like to pass my sympathies to the family and friends of Paul Norfolk and thank officers and staff for their hard work on this sad case."

Mr Justice Saunders said he believed Rimmer had been depressed.

He said: "Apart from these matters, there is nothing other than good that can be spoken of her.

"She has had a hard life by anyone's standards. She has spent most of her life helping others."

Mr Saunders said Rimmer had previously provided a "very high standard" of care for Mr and Mrs Norfolk and for her own husband.

Pedestrianisation plan fails to win backing

DESPITE a 70 per cent vote in favour of pedestrianisation of a High Street, councillors have agreed to abandon the idea and support a plan for a 20mph speed limit instead.

At the latest meeting of the Haverhill Area Working Party of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, it was agreed to approve a new scheme devised by Luke Barber of Suffolk County Council, which would remove all yellow lines but only allow vans and delivery vehicles in between 10am and 4pm.

Earlier this year, the working party abandoned plans for full pedestrianisation of the High Street, after strong objections were raised by traders and officers advised that it was unlikely they could win a public inquiry on the issue. An alternative plan put forward at the time to allow traffic to exit the street via Jubilee Walk was unanimously rejected by councillors.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Haverhill Town Council recently carried out a survey on the issue among people stopping at its market stall to sign a health petition, and found that 70 per cent of the 750 who responded were in favour of total pedestrianisation of the street.

However, the working party refused to accept the survey results and suggested they should be passed to Suffolk County Council.

The working party has a total budget of £750,000 for High Street enhancement work, plus an extra £189,000 from Suffolk County Council. The new scheme would cost £498,000, plus £8,000 to create a new Traffic Regulation Order, which would make it easier for police to enforce parking restrictions. Another £191,000 would be spent to enhance the market square, including new seats, repaving and a £10,000 public work of art in the form of a large, broadcasting head sculpture.

Although full pedestrianisation will remain on the working party's agenda, it is unlikely to be considered again unless there is a major change in circumstances.

Will Austin, Haverhill town clerk, told the meeting that the views of residents were being ignored and that parking restrictions had already proved impossible to enforce effectively.

Mr Barber said the 20mph speed limit would probably not need enforcing as engineering works, including flat-topped humps to control traffic speeds, would mean it would not be possible to drive at more than 10 or 12mph in the zone.

An 18-month experimental traffic order is proposed to see how effectively it works. The order would allow for closing the street from 6am to 6pm on Saturday for the market to be held there and also cover Friday, so that market could be moved into the High Street in future.

Mr Barber said: "It is important to strike a balance between restricting access to produce a pedestrian friendly environment, especially during the busier times of the day and maintaining deliveries, access to off-street private car parks and providing some parking for blue badge holders."

A period of statutory consultation will take place on the new plans, including a public exhibition.

Shiny cars will mean plenty of funds for heroes

A CAR WASH is donating an entire day's proceeds to a local driver taking part in next month's Rally for Heroes event.

Cars cleaned at Nico's Hand Car Wash in Hamlet Green, Haverhill, on Saturday will boost the funds being raised by Glen Horscroft, who runs a training company in Haverhill and will be one of 50 drivers taking part in the rally, which aims to cover five countries across Europe in seven days and raise a total of £100,000 for Help the Heroes and the Royal British Legion.

Glen, who must raise £1,000 and cover all his own costs, will be at the event with his car and a stand with music, nibbles and drink. He said: "I am very grateful to Nico, it is a lot of money he is giving to support me. Every penny made from car washes on the July 21 will go straight to the charity. Pop along and have your car washed and talk to me to see what it is we are working to achieve."

The Rally will be started by commentator Murray Walker and cover the Top Gear track, as well as visiting others in Monaco, Italy and Germany. For more information about the event, visit www.RallyforHeroes.com.

Meet Merlin and Arthur

ANCIENT British legends take to the road this summer as Cambridge Touring Theatre brings its lively and hilarious outdoor production of The Sword in the Stone to Haverhill.

Based on the age-old stories of King Arthur and Merlin, this new version includes songs, dances and interactive fun.

It will be presented at Haverhill's East Town Park on Saturday, July 21 at 5pm, preceded by a workshop session starting at 3.30pm.

For children who want to get more involved, the company offers 45-minute drama workshops before most performances. Here children aged five to 10 can explore the story of The Sword in the Stone, take part in their own knightly adventures and meet some of the characters from the play. Visit

Warning after drink-drive crackdown

A THIRD of the motorists who failed breath tests during an anti-drink-drive campaign had been involved in a crash.

Suffolk Police carried out 951 breath tests during a summer drink-drive campaign in June and 8.6 per cent of those tested – 82 drivers – failed. A total of 27 of the drivers whose results came back positive had been tested after a collision.

Sgt Paul Ward of Suffolk Police's collision reduction team said: "Driving when over the legal limit is incredibly dangerous and these results demonstrate exactly that.

"Those offending need to realise that they are not just putting themselves at risk but other innocent road users as well. This is a very serious issue and can have severe consequences."

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The highest failure rate was among men aged 25 and older, whose tests came back positive in 9.4 per cent of cases.

Some 206 drivers aged 25 and under were tested and 14 failed, while positive results were returned in 68 of the 745 tests carried out on men and women older than 25.

The same crackdown in 2011 saw 111 tests come back positive out of the 507 carried out, equating to a 21.9 per cent failure rate.

Sgt Ward said: "Last year's results were disappointing, so it is good to see an improvement in the figures, especially with the European Championships and the Queen's Jubilee being held during the campaign.

"However, we must not rest on our laurels and have to acknowledge the fact that just under 10 per cent of drivers tested were above the legal limit.

"This year more tests were carried out than during last year's campaign and I hope that acts as a warning to motorists – if you drink and drive you should not think you will get away with it.

"If you break the law and drive over the limit, our officers will be waiting to catch you."

Kara's good hair day helps sick children

LITTLE Kara Cheesmur braved the scissors to have her long locks cut in front of the whole school.

Kara, 6, said goodbye to her hair during assembly at Westfield Primary School in Haverhill.

Kara's hair will be sent to the Little Princesses charity, which will use it to create wigs for children who have lost their hair due to cancer treatment.

The youngster, who was also sponsored by family, friends and classmates and helped by her sister Madison, 8, raised £239 for the charity.

Special school victory delight

CELEBRATIONS have begun as plans for a much-needed free special school have been approved by the Department of Education.

Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill made a bid earlier this year for the new facility next to its existing building, which would prevent dozens of youngsters from the town having to make long journeys each day to special schools elsewhere.

The facility will be called the Churchill Free School, because it is close to Churchill Avenue, and the plan is to open by next September.

The school will cater for 70 pupils aged between eight and 18 who have special educational needs, especially those with speech, language and communication difficulties.

Principal Howard Lay said: "I am absolutely delighted for the pupils and parents of the area who are desperate for this kind of provision.

"Special educational needs provision is limited across the country but becoming more and more important as the number of early-term births rise.

"We have been careful not to raise too many expectations and we still need the support of neighbouring local authorities who will need to commission places, but this is a significant step forward and we are determined to make this vision a reality."

June McNaughton, a governor at the academy and co-ordinator of the bid said: "This is wonderful news. We have received overwhelming support from the local community and I will do all I can to ensure we meet their needs."

The next stage is to gain the support of the local authorities and appoint a headteacher.

Health centre closure sparks day of action

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A DAY of action to mark the closure of the Crown Health Centre will take place on July 28, as the Weekly News campaign to get better health provision in Haverhill continues.

Haverhill Town Council has approved the day of action on the closure date to demonstrate the town's anger at the withdrawal of £1.2m in primary health care services.

Councillors will be present at and around the Crown Health Centre, off Withersfield Road, Haverhill, and are inviting the public to join them to show their determination to protect the town's services.

They can add their names to the petition calling for the closure to be delayed so that proper plans can be made to reinvest the savings in local primary healthcare.

So far, more than 4,000 people have signed the petition, and the campaign has won the support of local MP Matthew Hancock.

HANDS OFF OUR

The original aim in setting up The Crown was to reduce Accident & Emergency attendances, but NHS Suffolk claims that this has not happened and the centre must close because it is too expensive to run.

Both registered and 'walk-in' patients with minor injuries will be asked to go to one of the other GP practices in the town.

The closure will save £1.2m a year but there are no plans to use this money for the benefit of Haverhill.

Instead, NHS Suffolk has offered the three remaining practices in Haverhill £55,000 to enable them to deal with the 900 registered patients from the Crown, and 22,000 walk-in patients who have been seen there since it opened.

Town clerk Will Austin said: "Their only other attempt to mitigate the impact of the closure to date is a one-day event to inform local people how to access healthcare.

"With GP surgeries already under pressure and patients reporting appointment waiting times of up to two weeks, the feeling within the town is that the PCT is abandoning them.

"Haverhill's population is expected to rise by some 10,000 by 2031 to some 35,000, a size that would warrant a local hospital. Instead of responding to this with appropriate planning, NHS Suffolk appears to be withdrawing from the town.

"Haverhill Town Council is determined to highlight the dangers posed to its community by NHS Suffolk's cuts."

Woman 'raped in toilets', court told

A WOMAN with severe learning difficulties was pushed into public toilets and raped, a court heard.

Gary Beal, 46, of Bury Road, Great Thurlow, denies rape, false imprisonment and sexual assault at Haverhill.

His trial began at Ipswich Crown Court on Monday and is expected to last for five days.

Riel Army-Jones, prosecuting, told the jury Beal targeted the victim, who has the mental capacity of a child.

She added: "These are serious charges. He followed her, pushed her into a public lavatory, locked the door, sexually assaulted and raped her."

It is alleged on June 18 last year Beal approached the woman at Haverhill Market Square and offered to walk home with her.

The court heard she refused but Beal followed her through a cemetery and grabbed her.

He then allegedly pulled her inside the toilets and attacked her.

Giving evidence from behind a screen during the second day of the trial, the woman said she had not reported the alleged rape straight away because she was frightened and thought people would think it was her fault.

Jury members were shown a taped police interview with the woman before she gave her evidence.

■ The trial continues.

I'm so proud of our town

Sir, I very rarely put pen to paper but felt so proud of Haverhill over the last few months that I thought 'why not?'

Firstly, the flags and decoration through the high street for the Diamond Jubilee were amazing and the best I have seen locally. These, along with the beautiful flowers for the Olympic Torch relay, when it came through Haverhill on Saturday, July 7. What a turnout for the procession, I was so proud to be there. People are always quick to put a down on Haverhill, but in the 20 years or so that I have lived here, I cannot speak more highly of it. How many other small towns get the free entertainment provided for us.

Well done Haverhill – I'm proud of you.

Helping Lesley is a pleasure

Sir, I am writing in response to your article regarding Lesley Perry and her battle to recover from a brain haemorrhage (Weekly News, July 5).

We have transported Lesley twice a week over the last several years, to the Headway Centre in Cambridge. I would like to say what a pleasure this has been.

Lesley is always cheerful, fiercely independent and has struck up a good relationship with her drivers. When her driver is on holiday, I have no problem finding a replacement driver because she is such a nice lady to transport. We receive funding from Cambridgeshire County Council and South Cambridgeshire District Council which enables us to cover these trips at a reduced rate. Thank you for an interesting article.

Mum's butterfly tattoo in memory of her son

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A GRATEFUL mum has had a hospice logo tattooed on her neck in memory of her son who was cared for there before his death.

Denise Tarrant decided to have a tattoo of the purple and orange butterfly emblem of the East Anglia's Children's Hospice at Milton in memory of Joshua, who spent the last weeks of his life at the hospice. He died on Sunday, April 29, aged 16, with his parents at his side.

Tributes flooded in for the teenager, who remained cheerful and positive, despite battling cancer for half of his life.

Joshua was diagnosed with rare, highly malignant brain tumours in August 2004, but constantly defied the expectations of his doctors. Despite receiving radiotherapy, chemotherapy and other treatments, the Haverhill youngster was determined to lead as normal a life as possible.

Mrs Tarrant, of Lowry Close, Haverhill, was joined by friends Lynne and Daryl Pannell, who also had the same tattoo, drawn by Josh Peacock. They are being sponsored and hope to raise at least £500 for the hospice from their efforts.

Mrs Tarrant said the idea came from Ivy Brown, a friend and former classmate of Joshua's at Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill, who has the same tattoo.

Mrs Tarrant said: "I chose Josh because he is a graffiti artist, which was Joshua's great love. Joshua also loved skulls and Josh specialises in them."

"I thought I would like to do something in memory of Joshua and when I saw Ivy's tattoo, it was done so perfectly. I wanted to do something that he would have been impressed with."

"We are already up to £2,100 from donations and people who did not send flowers and we are going to try and do a couple of golf days for the hospice too."

"We just wanted to give something back, because I don't know what we would have done without them."

■ Donations can be made at www.justgiving.com/Joshua-Tarrant.

Visitor traces family roots back to late 18th century

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

KEVIN French made a 6,000-mile journey from his home in South Africa to trace his roots in a Suffolk town.

Kevin's family left England to go to the Kimberly diamond mines in South Africa and he returned 'home' some 150 years later to trace his family roots in Haverhill – and struck gold.

Members of Haverhill Family and Local History Groups had searched the records and were able to give Kevin and his wife Linde a guided tour of his family's connections with Haverhill and Sturmer.

They gave Kevin a map and old postcard showing where his great, great, great grandparents, Thomas and Ann French, had lived in Hamlet Road and took him to the very spot where the house had stood.

A visit was made to St Mary's Church Haverhill, where Thomas and Ann married in 1819 and their 14 children were baptised, and also to the cemetery, where family were buried including Thomas, who died in the workhouse, aged 86 years.

As a surprise bonus, Kevin's family tree was taken back another generation when they visited St Mary's Church, Sturmer, and saw the entry in the church registers for Thomas' baptism in 1797 and also his parents' marriage there that same year.

Kevin would still like to know if there is anyone in the area with French family connections.

If you might be able to help or would like to know more about tracing your own family history, contact Alan Bumpstead of the Haverhill Family History Group, on 01440 704157 or visit haverhill@suffolkth.org.uk

Fate is hanging in the balance for knifeman

A MAN with significant learning difficulties grabbed a passing schoolgirl and held a knife to her stomach, a court has heard.

Derek Bowering, 43, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court for sentencing on Monday. At a previous hearing, he had admitted one charge of false imprisonment and two of possessing a bladed instrument.

Judge John Devaux adjourned sentence for a further week on Bowering, who has been remanded in custody for five months, so that detailed information could be provided on a possible support package for him if he was released into the community.

Although not committing himself to a non-custodial sentence, the judge said he wanted to have all options available to him before he decided.

Robert Sadd, prosecuting, said Bowering, of Abbotts Road, Haverhill, had no previous convictions. Bowering suffers from learning difficulties and had met a younger woman, who had special needs and a mental age of nine to 10 years.

He had been allowed by her family to make supervised visits as a friend, but started making too many phone calls and was banned from the house.

Bowering arrived at the family's house one day in January. He was very agitated and refused to leave.

When his friend's mother and her teenage daughter arrived, Bowering took a knife from his pocket. They locked themselves inside a car and saw Bowering becoming more agitated and banging on the fence. Bowering left after the police were called.

In a second incident on the same day at Haverhill, a 13-year-old schoolgirl was walking home when she saw Bowering, whom she did not know, with a strange look on his face, and then she saw a police car.

Mr Sadd said: "When she was in the middle of the road, someone seized her from behind, grabbed her round the top of her body with both his arms and she felt the blade of a knife across her stomach.

"There was a stand-off for about five minutes and eventually the police restrained him.

"The girl was shocked and frightened, and felt she might be stabbed."

Jonathan Goodman, defending, said his client had significant learning difficulties but had never been in any trouble until his father died.

Although he was left the house he lived in and some cash, he struggled to cope with life on his own.

Mr Goodman said: "He was essentially cast adrift. Left alone he struggled with household chores. He is not a habitual danger, what he did can be seen as out of character."

Bowering was assessed by social services as not being sufficiently disabled to require any form of support. As a result of the case, he had been reassessed and a support package was now being prepared for him.

School's Out For Summer!

IDEAS FOR WHERE TO TAKE YOUR CHILDREN THIS SUMMER LOCALLY

Top outdoor toys for summer

WILL this summer be a scorcher? With optimism as our key ally, we must buy the sunscreen, paddling pools and more to create a compelling reason for the sun to don his cap.

At the recent debut of the Toyology Outdoor Toy Awards, a group of 30 children – they really do know best – had a day testing out 60 of the best outdoor toys on the market.

To keep your ankle biters away from the gogglebox, check out the top toys as chosen by the eight- and nine-year-olds.

For more information, visit www.toyology.tv.

■ Construction Works – Brik-A-Blok – from £114.95 at www.costcuttersuk.com.

Enjoy hours of fun as the kids gather round to build a host of interesting back garden properties.

This colourful set-up is durable to the elements but most of all it unleashes creativity from everyone that picks up a piece. If you're looking for some peace and quiet, this definitely delivers.

■ Get Together – Boochie – £17.95, available from www.amazon.co.uk.

New to these shores, this action-packed game will keep a group of four entertained for hours.

The rules are simple – throw the Boochie and then try to land your ball or hoop as near to it as possible. But with the wrist tracker giving you crazy challenges – stand on one leg – the gameplay is as addictive as it is difficult. Suitable for the garden, park or beach, it's an absolute summer essential.

■ Easy Rider – Razor FlashRider 360 – £129.99 from www.amazon.co.uk.

This gadget is seriously cool.

With castor wheels on the back and an over-sized wheel up front, it's sure to give a grin-inducing ride. Add in a brake system that features a spark maker every time you touch it to the floor and you have a very impressive spinning machine.

■ In The Air – Wicked Light-Up Big Bang Rocket – £12.99 from www.play.com.

This toy should win a gold medal for simplicity – just stick a piece of paper in the nose and then throw it up in the air as far as those biceps allow.

On impact with terra firma, it'll make the most explosive sound, as well as flashing its multi-coloured LEDs the entire time.

■ Bullseye – Zing Air Z-Curve Launcher Bow – £14.99 from www.menkind.co.uk.

There isn't another blaster-type toy that can come close to this one!

Load up your foam-tipped projectiles, pull back on the elasticated launcher and let rip. A few playthings claim lengthy distances, but there aren't many that can match the 125ft achievements of this archery set.

FlashRider: Grin-inducing ride promises hours of thrills.

Get creative: With Brik-A-Blok.

Into the light: author Debz Lowry.

Picture: Warren Gunn 839816

Turning my the call of DEBZ Lowry is a woman who seems very much in control of her life.

A qualified counsellor, she used her skills to set up the Focus Foundation – an award-winning organisation (it scooped a Cambridge News Community Challenge Award in 2002) helping marginalised people in Cambridge – and is now working towards setting up a Christian recovery centre in the city for people suffering from alcoholism, drug addiction and mental health issues.

But life hasn't always been so positive for the mum of six. A turbulent childhood saw her abducted when she was 4, become the victim of an appalling gang rape and spend time in a young offenders' institute. As a teenager, she dabbled in witchcraft and later endured a series of violent relationships from which, she claims, she narrowly escaped with her life.

"I'm a lucky woman to be here today," the 56-year-old says with a smile. "For me to come out of all of my experiences, totally unscathed, I think is quite remarkable."

Violence and abuse pushed Debz Lowry's life into a spiral of drugs, mental illness and an obsession with witchcraft and Satanism. Then she saw the light and found a Christian faith that turned her life around – and now she's dedicating herself to helping others do the same. Louise Martin reports.

Debz, who lives in Cambridge, has now chosen to share her story with the world in a warts-and-all autobiography. Called Dark Seeds 3am, it's a harrowing yet gripping read – and Debz admits she thought long and hard before putting pen to paper.

"The thought of writing my book had been on my mind for 20 years," she says. "I didn't really want to relive the experiences but I knew I needed to tell my story because there are people out there going through similar circumstances."

"It took me just over a year to write and there were lots of times when I put the book down and thought 'I can't believe I've been through all this and I'm now in a place where I'm completely well!'"

Abuse and violence are major themes throughout the autobiography – as is the supernatural world (Debz claims to have seen her first ghost at the age of 11, and believes there was "something demonic" in her childhood family home.)

When Debz was 4 she wandered out of her house in Brighton without her mum seeing her and was bundled, kicking and screaming, into the back of a car. Some time later she was left by the roadside, and was later found by her frantic mum.

During her school days, Debz was so unhappy she repeatedly ran away from home, only to be hauled back again. She began drinking and smoking marijuana and, according to the book, was subjected to a vicious gang rape while visiting a fairground.

"It seemed to be one trauma after another," says Debz. "When your life takes a downward spiral you then become a vulnerable person. I never thought my life would ever get better or change. I felt totally used by people."

Following the rape, Debz returned to her family, and it was decided she would be sent to an approved school. But just a few days after starting, she ran away again, this time falling in with a group who were taking LSD. She was just 14 when she tried the hallucinogenic drug and from that day on, she continued taking it every time she escaped from the school.

On one of her escape attempts, she hitch-hiked to Chichester, where the 15-year-old met a man – called "Paul" in the book, though it's not his real name – eight years older than her. When she returned to Brighton, she told her parents she had fallen in love with him and they were moving in together. "I went to him but the police were soon looking for me because my dad had put an article in the papers about a 15-year-old girl missing from home," says Debz.

When the police tracked her down, she was so desperate not to be taken away that she assaulted the police officer while trying to escape. She was arrested and the following day a court ordered she be sent to a young offenders' institute. She was due to serve her sentence at Bullwood Hall in Essex, but first she had to undergo psychiatric reports at Holloway Prison.

"To be put into a prison where there were people coming off heroin addiction, mental health patients, murderers... it was the most terrifying experience ever," says Debz.

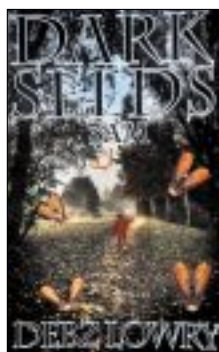

She was staying in the hospital wing but she had to walk through the prison wing to get to the psychiatric office. On one occasion, she saw the Moors murderer Myra Hindley. "She was being escorted by two prison officers but just a brief glimpse of her was absolutely terrifying."

During her time at Bullwood Hall, Debz began self-harming and also gave herself numerous "tattoos" using glass, a needle or lead from a pencil. The tattoos include the words hells angel, acid, hate, living death, Hendrix, freedom, hell and Satan. Bullwood was also where Debz met a girl who had been arrested for desecrating graves while on acid. The girls bonded in their common interest in the occult and would often recite The Lord's Prayer backwards.

After serving 16 months at Bullwood Hall, Debz was given a dishonourable discharge because of her disruptive behaviour. Shortly before she was released, her mum died of liver cancer. "That really flipped me over the edge," she admits. "I didn't get any counselling; if you self-harmed you were just bandaged up and put back in the cell."

On her release, Debz went to see her dad, brother and sisters, but any hopes she had of a family reconciliation were quickly dashed.

The 3am part of Dark Seeds comes from what Debz describes as a "paranormal incident" which happened to her and her friend Kevin. They were living in Sheffield and Debz, who was 17 at the time, admits she was fixated with trying to make Satan appear. "My curiosity of the paranormal world became totally an obsession to me, and I think that's demonic in itself," she says now.

Debz had gone to bed but remembers waking at exactly 3am, feeling like she was being drawn to go downstairs to where, she believes, Satan was waiting for her. "There was a presence that appeared and it filled the room. It wasn't a stature of a person or anything small – it was absolutely huge. I couldn't breathe. I felt absolutely consumed by its presence."

"People joke about the devil or Satan, but he's real. I'd said to Satan in my invocations 'If you appear before me and give me power and control back in my life, I will give you my soul'; that's the pact I made."

Terrified by the situation, Debz ran back up the stairs to Kevin, but the ordeal wasn't over. "We heard the pounding of hooves on the stairs and then Kevin, who I didn't know had a Christian background, shouted 'get behind me Satan in the name of Jesus Christ!'"

Seconds later, according to Debz, the sound disappeared and the cold chill that had filled the house went. "Talking about it now even freaks me out a little bit," she says. "I think that night if I'd given my soul to the devil I wouldn't be here now. I'd be dead or completely mad – one of the two."

Shortly afterwards, Debz headed back to Brighton, where she dabbled further in witchcraft and suffered a breakdown caused by drugs and sexual abuse. "I had a breakdown when I was on LSD, and I was never the same when I came round. I saw a doctor who told me I had schizophrenic symptoms brought on by the LSD."

At her lowest ebb, Debz returned to the older man she had met when she was 15. She was still only 18, but had been through so much she was, she admits, severely mentally unstable. "I couldn't communicate properly; I thought my food was poisoned, I was agoraphobic, claustrophobic and full of fear. I spent my time screaming and rocking on a bed."

On one occasion, Debz became so consumed by fear she remembers losing all sensation in her body – as if she had become detached from herself. In desperation, she called out "Jesus Christ, help me" – after which, she says, she experienced an "instant feeling of peace" which she can only describe as "a miracle".

"All the voices in my head stopped, I was completely normal. The love was so immense and so powerful and protective and it brought wholeness into my life for the first time."

The experience led Debz into Christianity, and she seemed to be getting her life on track. She married "Paul" and the couple moved to Thetford and had four children – Charmaine, now 35, Vinnie, 34, Michelle, 32 and Marie, 31. But when the marriage hit problems she turned to the church for help, only to be told they didn't agree with divorce. "I'd been through so much and I thought, there can't be a God. I had become depressed and I lost my Christian faith."

After moving to Cottenham in the mid 1980s, Debz rediscovered Jesus, but continued to face challenges that severely tested her faith.

But slowly and steadily, she rebuilt her life and, with the help of her faith, is now living life to the full and has two more children: Zoe, 21 and Jade, 17.

"I want people to see that even though you go through lots of different things in life, you can have a life. I've converted from witchcraft to Christianity, from a dark world to a heavenly world, and that's where I'm staying."

"My next step is to set up the Christian recovery centre. Out of all that pain came a lot of good and I want to use my experiences to help other people."

Debz is open to questions about Dark Seeds 3am and will be at Tesco in Newmarket Road, Cambridge, today and at Bar Hill Tesco on Saturday, July 21, from 9.30am. An extract of her book is at www.darkseeds3am.co.uk.

Your Homesnow Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Homesnow team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

www.homesnow.co.uk

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.
- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.
- ☐ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

Dairy owner takes milk to the mount

A DAIRY owner has achieved his ambition to deliver a pint of milk to the top of a mountain and boost funds at a hospice.

Roger Plumb, director of Moojuice, which delivers milk to homes in the Haverhill and Balsham areas, has successfully climbed Mount Kilimanjaro in Tanzania, raising more than £6,000 for St Nicholas Hospice Care.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

In true milkman style, Roger reached the summit of 6,000 metres at 8am on Thursday, June 21 and delivered his nicely chilled (-30C) pint of milk to the foot of the much photographed summit signpost.

Roger said: "It was without doubt the most difficult and challenging thing I have ever done, but also the most rewarding.

"The challenge involved eight days of trekking in temperatures of 30C and camping in temperatures of -10C.

"On summit night, we were woken at midnight after only a couple of hours' sleep in order to reach the summit by daybreak.

"I would like to be able to say that I reached the summit easily, but in truth, I only just made it to the top and promptly had to descend rather quickly, due to suffering from the effects of the altitude including nosebleeds, high blood pressure, headaches, sickness and shortness of breath.

"It was the thought of all the kind people who have donated; all the people who have sent their best wishes and the support of the trekking group that gave me the final push to get to the top.

"So I would like to thank everyone – customers, suppliers, friends and family – who have generously sponsored me in this challenge and sent kind encouraging words.

"I am really pleased to report that the total raised for St Nicholas Hospice Care currently stands at £6,500, which is a fantastic amount."

Host a great tea party

MARIE Curie Cancer Care is asking people to hold a Blooming Great Tea Party to help raise funds for the charity. It could be a cuppa with colleagues, a vintage inspired tea party or even a larger party to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee. The money raised will help Marie Curie Nurses to provide more free care to people with terminal cancer and other terminal illnesses in their own homes.

Pilot group wins praise

A GROUP which will be one of only 12 in the country to pilot a new way of giving local communities more say in the way budgets are spent has been praised by a government minister for its work. Eric Pickles MP, Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, wrote to ONE Haverhill chairman Anne Gower to express his gratitude for the work being done in Haverhill by local organisations engaged in the community budgeting pilot. He said he wanted to help areas like this move from aspiration into the reality of decentralising power.

Sister among blood brothers

Singing sibling Maureen Nolan is currently starring as Mrs Johnstone in Blood Brothers – a role performed by three of her sisters before her. She talks nature and nurture with JENNIFER SHELTON

THE Nolan sisters seem to do everything together. Not only have they been singing as a group for more years than they'd probably care to remember, the girls from Dublin have now simultaneously caught the acting bug.

Willy Russell's Blood Brothers, for example, has seen four of the sisters take on the character of Mrs Johnstone in the last decade, and is currently touring the country with Maureen taking her turn in the role.

Known as 'the pretty Nolan' (or 'the shy one', as she would have it), 58-year-old Maureen – named after her mother – is softly-spoken, referring to her sisters and her own growing family (she has one son and two granddaughters) with great affection.

Seeing her sisters perform before her has certainly helped her with her latest part, and it was while watching Blood Brothers with her sister Bernie, Maureen tells me, that she first fell in love with the play.

"Last week we were in Manchester and the first time I saw it was there, at the Opera House, with Bernie. That was in about 2000, and I absolutely fell in love with it and proceeded to see it another 18 times!

"It's just my favourite, favourite play. I love the story. Willy Russell's writing is amazing, and he really makes you love the boys. He draws you in so you're laughing all the way through. And it makes it all the more powerful at the end."

How did she feel about filling her sisters' shoes?

"Bernie was in it, then Linda and Denise, so I suppose initially there was a little bit of extra pressure, and we do have a bit of gentle rivalry, but they've all seen me and we're all very supportive of each other.

"It's directed and produced in the same way, so all you can do is bring your own slant to it," she adds. Asked what that slant may be, she replies: "When Bernie first did it, she wasn't a mother at the time, and Linda and Denise have no children, so I think maybe I bring more of a maternal feel to it, having my own son."

Maureen first landed the role in the West End in 2005 and returned to it in 2007, but is enjoying taking the show on tour – with Cambridge a particular highlight.

She says: "Cambridge is my favourite place, I absolutely love it. I've been there a few times before and I'm looking forward to spending some more time there. I know you probably take it for granted, living there, but I think it's such a fantastic place."

In 2009, Maureen, Bernie, Linda and Coleen hit the road once again with their reunion tour, which took in Cambridge Corn Exchange.

"It was the most fun I think we've ever had," she says. "It was just amazing – pure cheese, camp fun! And the reaction we got from the public was just fantastic, I'm so grateful."

"While I'm very happy with what I'm doing at the moment, and I wouldn't go back to doing the circuit full-time, it was just a great chance to get out there again with the girls," she smiles. "We might be doing it again next year as a kind of final farewell."

Though the tour did prove a hit, it also sparked some tension between the sisters, with Anne, the eldest, claiming she was excluded. Denise, also a long-serving member of the group, was also absent.

Maureen seems to emerge as the peacemaker, however, being the only one to respond when the two older sisters offered an olive branch to the younger four. And she's keen to focus on the good times they had together.

Born to musical parents, it was probably inevitable that at least some of the family would take up the showbiz mantle, and Maureen certainly caught the bug.

"In school when I was bored I'd be singing songs under my breath," she recalls. "My parents were both singers so they used to take us around with them from when I was about 9.

Was she aware of having a different childhood to others? "It was nice to be different, but of course when you're a teenager you just want to be the same as everyone."

As a family, 'The Singing Nolans' performed across the northern club circuit, having moved from Dublin to Blackpool in 1962. In 1974 the girls branched out as The Nolan Sisters, making regular TV appearances. Then, in 1975, they joined their hero Frank Sinatra on tour.

"That was probably one of the highlights of our career," beams Maureen. "We were brought up on his music – my family were mad music fans, but being such a big family we couldn't always afford tickets for concerts. So to get the European tour in 1975 was just a dream come true."

Was she nervous about meeting him?

"Very! He used to come up to us during sound checks, and we'd watch him in his, and he'd say, 'Well, of course you girls are a bit young to remember these songs', but we weren't! Our dad was really into him because he was a crooner too. I remember wanting to go up to him but because I had so many questions to ask I ended up asking nothing!"

Describing herself as shy, Maureen admits she never imagined making the move from singing to theatre.

"I was very shy all the way through our career. When some of my sisters went into acting people would say, 'Ooh, you'll be next!' but I couldn't see it. So I'm always amazed when I'm out there doing it."

Comedy classic on the stage

ROBERT Powell and comedian Joe Pasquale unite in comedy classic Doctor in the House at Cambridge Arts Theatre to celebrate the best of British comedy. When young student Simon Sparrow has to leave his first-choice lodgings to escape the clutches of his landlady's amorous daughter, he ends up with three amiable but less than shining fellow students as flatmates, including the work-shy Tony Grimsdyke (Joe Pasquale). Towering over them all is the short-tempered, demanding chief surgeon, Sir Lancelot Spratt (Robert Powell), who strikes terror into his inadequate undergraduates. The original Richard Gordon novel, Doctor in the House, is one of 12 'doctor' books and is noted for its witty depiction of a medical student's years of professional training. It remains a classic in its own right, based on Richard's own anecdotes and experiences of pre-war medical school. The 1954 film adaptation starred Dirk Bogarde and was the highest-grossing film of the year at the UK box office, spawning six follow-ups and a television series. ■ Doctor in the House, Cambridge Arts Theatre, July 23 – 28 at 7.45pm. The food of love

THIS year's Cambridge Summer Music Festival promises to turn "eclecticism into an art form" with a diverse line-up of concerts in some of the city's most historic buildings.

Highlights of the festival – which runs until August 4 – include Debussy's Images by internationally renowned pianist Melyvn Tan (Saturday, July 28, 1pm and 7.30pm, West Road Concert Hall) and Bach's Trio Sonatas played by organist Anne Page at a series of six lunchtime concerts in some of Cambridge's most beautiful sacred spaces.

French music and Debussy form a strong thread in the 2012 festival, with performances of French organ and piano music, the Wagner-inspired Debussy Baudelaire songs and works by the master of the glorious French baroque, Rameau.

The solo voice of soprano Elin Manahan Thomas adds a dash of Handel, with Elin being joined by virtuoso trumpeter Crispian Steele Perkins for some soprano/trumpet duetting in Bach's Cantata 51 and Handel's Let the Bright Seraphim (Sunday, July 29, 8pm, King's College Chapel), while tenor Nicky Spence enchants with the songs of Ireland, Finzi and Vaughan Williams (Thursday, August 2, Fitzwilliam College Auditorium).

Other well-known names gracing this year's festival include former BBC Young Musician of the Year Nicola Benedetti, bringing her Benedetti Trio to play Strauss, Brahms and Tchaikovsky (Friday, July 20, 7.30pm, Guildhall), and the legendary Allegri Quartet, Britain's longest-running chamber music ensemble, who will be giving two concerts on successive afternoons, featuring quartets from Haydn to Anthony Payne, by way of Beethoven, Borodin and Tchaikovsky (Thursday/Friday, July 26/27, 3.30pm, Emmanuel United Reformed Church). There will be appearances by other top ensembles including Dutch reed quintet Calefax, giving their interpretations of works from several centuries (Thursday, July 19, 7.30pm, Great St Mary's Church), and Exaudi, a young vocal ensemble setting poetry from the Song of Songs in a performance called Juice of the Pomegranate (Thursday, July 26, 7.30pm, Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs).

The festival – which has been one of the highlights of the city's cultural calendar since its launch in 1979 – prides itself on venturing far beyond the confines of classical music.

There is flamenco from Spain, folk music from Ireland, a celebration of the songs of Edith Piaf, plus music for banjo and harmonica, and a varied programme of concerts for children.

After a 10-year gap the MIB are back and Agent J travels back to 1969 to stop an alien assassinating Agent K, and altering the history of the planet. Finally, with an all-star cast including Bill Murray, Tilda Swinton, Jason Schwartzman, Edward Norton and Bruce Willis, Moonrise Kingdom (12A) is showing on Tuesday, July 24, at 7.45pm. Set in the 1960s, 12-year-olds Sam and Suzy flee their cosy New England coastal town in an impulse gesture of pre-teen romance. Suzy's panic-stricken mother and her seemingly unflustered father scour the region for their absent offspring, with help from Sam's Scout leader and the local sheriff. Meanwhile, a ferocious storm is brewing offshore and threatens to wreck this quaint island community.

Diary dates include the latest Blunderbus Theatre's super-snappy production of The Selfish Crocodile on Thursday, August 2, at 2pm, The Pea, The Bean & The Enormous Turnip by Storybox Theatre on Tuesday, August 14, at 2pm and Haverhill Flower Club's Annual Floral Art Competition on August 17 and 18.

The big film

THE DARK KNIGHT RISES
Certificate 12A, 2h44m

DIRECTOR Christopher Nolan completes his dark and brooding trilogy based on the caped crimefighter in suitably grandiose fashion, delivering not only the longest film in the series but also the most brutal, violent and satisfying. Replete with more than an hour of footage shot on IMAX cameras to enhance picture quality and truly immerse the audience in the pulse-quickening action, The Dark Knight Rises ends Nolan's tenure on a high.

It is eight years since Batman falsely assumed responsibility for the death of district attorney Harvey Dent (Aaron Eckhart) in order to bring the anti-crime legislation into effect and crush Gotham's criminal fraternity. The caped crusader is a fading memory and crippled billionaire Bruce Wayne (Christian Bale) has become a virtual recluse, holed up in his manor with trusty butler Alfred (Sir Michael Caine).

But an encounter with wily cat burglar Selina Kyle (Anne Hathaway) draws Bruce into the orbit of hulking terrorist Bane (Tom Hardy), who intends to destroy Gotham and its money-oriented denizens.

A dastardly plot unfolds but Bruce is physically and mentally unable to stop gangs of gun-toting mercenaries from overwhelming Commissioner

Gordon (Gary Oldman) and the Gotham police force, including idealistic officer John Blake (Joseph Gordon-Levitt).

As Bane's uprising gathers momentum, Bruce turns to technical genius Lucius Fox (Morgan Freeman) and loyal board member Miranda Tate (Marion Cotillard) to protect his beloved Wayne Enterprises. Alas, money can only go so far and Bruce must don his cowl one final time, putting his life on the line to save the residents of Gotham, who had previously turned their backs on him.

It's to his credit that Nolan resisted the urge to jump on the 3D bandwagon for Batman's swansong. Certainly, the breathlessly orchestrated action sequences, including the spectacular opening aboard a huge C-130 Hercules transport plane, would draw bigger gasps in the eye-popping format.

However, Nolan has always focused on the characters and their twisted psychologies, and he puts all of them and us through the emotional wringer in this final chapter, co-written by his brother Jonathan.

Christian Bale brings typical intensity to the title role and the tender bond with Sir Michael Caine's lackey continues to tug heartstrings.

Thankfully, Tom Hardy's electronic vocals have been improved since the early trailers for the film so his masked villain is largely intelligible while Anne Hathaway slinks away from Michelle Pfeiffer's memorable portrayal of Catwoman but still pursues some choice one-liners.

Slugging it out with the enemy

THERE'S no doubt about it – slugs and snails are having a field day thanks to all the rain we've had, eating bedding plants, chomping on vegetables and munching their way through gardens nationwide.

The more vigilant among us have been doing morning and evening patrols, picking off the slippery suckers before they wreak havoc with our prized plants and suitably disposing of them.

As slugs and snails are particularly rampant in my area, I have resorted to putting young leafy plants, which these pests love, in pots and either placing the pots on metal stands which slugs have trouble in climbing, or putting copper strips around the pots to deter them.

The copper contains a minute electrical charge to deter the slug or snail. But even these have limited effectiveness and some still manage to reach the plants.

"Slugs and snails are likely to be breeding more successfully this year," says Andrew Salisbury, senior entomologist with the RHS.

"They will take advantage of any warm, wet weather to breed and often you find slug and snail eggs in damp and sheltered situations. The eggs are in groups a few millimetres across, spherical in shape and opaque white and you will need to dispose of them."

Don't throw slugs and snails over the neighbour's fence or into your garden refuse bag, he advises, because they will

by Hannah Stephenson

just escape and return to your plants.

The only way to get rid of them effectively (the squeamish perhaps shouldn't read on) is to do it with a pair of secateurs or pop them into a bag and bin them.

"I've seen figures that there are 15,000 slugs a year in an average garden," he adds. That's a lot of secateur work.

They will travel great distances for a tasty morsel. Salisbury has seen evidence of slug damage on really tall clematis and on magnolia flowers – they will go up and down a tree in a night, he says. Even now, the most effective method of reducing these slimy pests is to use slug pellets, he says.

There are many types on the market, some of which are organic, but you'll need to re-apply them regularly in rainy weather, when they will break down quickly.

Alternatively, invest in a nematode biological control, a parasitic worm which works its way into the soil and will kill slugs underground, but may not be so effective on snails which tend to remain on the surface.

Nematode controls are available from mail order biological control suppliers and come as a powder which dilutes into water. The nematodes penetrate the slugs' body and release bacteria to kill the slugs, and should last around six weeks.

Beer traps and copper tapes around pots may help to some extent, but they won't eliminate the problem.

"You will never totally eliminate slug and snail damage in weather like this," he concludes, "but you can try to reduce the risk."

Encourage predators such as hedgehogs, frogs and toads into your garden by leaving a patch of wild area or installing a pond.

You can also encourage snail-eating birds such as thrushes into your garden by planting shrubs and trees which bear berries and create a nesting area.

Some slugs spend a lot of their time below soil level, feeding on bulbs, tubers including potatoes and roots. Snails are much less active in winter, but slugs will feed whatever the weather.

You could also plant sacrificial crops such as lettuce, which slugs love, to distract them from the crops you really value.

If you don't want an endless battle with these slimy creatures, the best solution is to plant species which they don't like, such as hardy cranesbill geraniums, hydrangea, pinks, hebes, potentilla, lavatera and plants with hairy or narrow leaves, or succulent types such as sedum.

GARDEN PEST: Pellets are still the best way to tackle snails and slugs says Andrew Salisbury, chief entomologist with the RHS.

Adam: Vauxhall's new apple

Less parking space/bigger cars dilemma

THE average amount of space for parking in residential areas has shrunk by 9 per cent in the last 10 years, it was revealed this week, writes Peter Woodman.

Yet the number of cars has grown 15 per cent over the last decade and vehicles are getting bigger, a survey covering England by car insurance firm LV= showed.

Between 2001 to 2011, motorists in England have seen the space available for parking near their homes drop from 32ft to 29ft 5in.

During that time the number of cars in England has grown 15 per cent and the average car is now around 14ft 1in long – about six inches more than 10 years ago.

Westminster in central London has the smallest amount of parking space – just 14ft 2in per car, which represents a 21 per cent shrinkage since 2001.

Outside London, the least amount of resident parking space per vehicle is to be found in Harlow in Essex; in the Hertfordshire towns of Stevenage, Broxbourne and Watford; and in Slough in Berkshire.

The survey also showed that since 2008, a total of 27 per cent of English councils have increased the cost of residential parking permits.

As many as 9 per cent of car owners have to pay for the right to park outside their home, paying an average of £96 per year.

The most expensive permits were in Birmingham (£785), Canterbury in Kent (£511) and Poole in Dorset (£440), with residential parking permits netting councils £47.8 million in 2011 alone.

LV= said information obtained by a freedom of information request found that eight councils admitted residents had had to wait more than a year for a parking permit in their area.

In the Mid Devon District Council area, one motorist waited 2,920 days (eight years) for a parking permit.

The survey showed 11 per cent of drivers said they had parked illegally near their home because there was not space for them and around a third of these illegal parkers were fined as a result, paying an average of £92 each.

A-sector Adam's LED first

VAUXHALL released its first official pictures of the new Adam this week, heralding a sea change in the fashionable A-sector with an urban chic car that can be personalised in more than a million different ways.

Adam is a three-door, four-seater that will be unveiled at September's Paris Motor Show before appearing in UK showrooms in January.

Classy, sophisticated and glamorous, Adam will be the first car in the A-sector to have the option of LED daytime running lights.

And, unlike other rivals in the segment, Adam bucks the trend for retro-based design with a fresh and bold look that will appeal to open-minded individuals who want to defy convention with a car that's distinctive and striking.

Said Mark Adams, Vauxhall/Opel's vice president of design: "No other car in this segment can be individualised as much as Adam. It's very unlikely that you'll find two identical Adams out there."

Vauxhall's Adam will be offered with a choice of three efficient ecoFLEX four-cylinder petrol engines from launch: a 1.2-litre 68bhp, plus two 1.4-litre engines with either 84bhp or 97bhp. All will be available with optional Start/Stop technology and will be mated to a five-speed manual gearbox.

Later on, Adam will be the first car in Vauxhall's range to adopt the new-generation small petrol engine, featuring direct injection and forced induction, and an all-new six-speed gearbox.

Adam will be available to order after its official premiere at the Paris Motor Show in September.

Dilemma: Parking equation doesn't stack up.

Tips for driving in heavy rainfall from Institute of Advanced Motoring (IAM)

ROAD safety charity the IAM is offering motorists advice on driving in heavy rain, following the Met Office issuing amber warnings of torrential rain over the coming days.

IAM chief examiner Peter Rodger said: "A suddenly very wet road surface increases the chances of slipping when braking or steering, which is a problem not just for motorists, but cyclists and motorcyclists too."

"When driving in wet conditions remember that stopping distances will increase, and visibility will be reduced. Drop your speed and give yourself more time to slow down."

In cases of severe flooding, you should reconsider making the journey at all. If it is unavoidable, and you have to drive through deep water, the IAM recommends drivers take the following precautions:

■ Drive on the highest section of the road and don't set off if a vehicle is approaching you

■ Leave time and space to avoid swamping other cars and pedestrians

■ Drive slowly and keep going once you have started – make sure you have a clear run. In a manual car, keep the revs high by "slipping the clutch" (which means the clutch is not fully engaged) all the time you are in the water

■ If you can't see where you are going to come out of the water, such as when approaching flooding on a bend, think twice about starting to drive into it

■ In deep water never take your foot off the accelerator, as this could allow water to travel up the exhaust pipe

■ Once you're out of the water, dry the brakes before you need them. The best way is to lightly apply the brake as you drive along for a few seconds, after checking nothing is following you too closely.

To help you stay safe the IAM has a new site, www.drivingadvice.org.uk, with traffic updates, weather forecasts, and driving tips, including driving abroad, coping with Olympic congestion, and loading the car.

Dodgy weather: Rain has washed away many people's hopes of summer.

Getting in a Twizy? No worries!

WALKING out into the car park to take a look at one of the latest electric cars on the market I'm struck by how small the vehicle is – taking up a third of a parking space, writes Rachel Allen.

I feel vulnerable at the thought of driving such a tiny car – even smaller than a Smart car – on busy roads, however as soon as I get in my fears are laid to rest as it somehow feels larger sat in the driver's seat.

At first glance you would never believe it was a two-seater, with a tandem arrangement.

Clearly it is restricted to one main purpose and that is getting about town – or the city in my case – perfect for someone living and working or commuting in Cambridge. I certainly wouldn't take it on the A14, which proved a bit of a logistical nightmare for me getting from Milton to Cherry Hinton.

However actually driving the electric vehicle proved a delight – it was a smooth ride, for me at least, as my passengers seemed to be on the receiving end of any uncomfortable bumps and potholes.

The Twizy can comfortably get up to 50 miles per hour and has a range of 60 miles. It is also relatively easy to charge – taking just three and a half hours from empty – and has a regular plug like any household appliance. I had to charge it at work as I live in a block of flats but The Grafton and Queen Anne car parks both have electric car charging points, which I could have used. Despite not having power steering I soon adapted, paying extra care at roundabouts and parking. Rear vision was also limited, however I don't think it hindered my driving in any way as I used the wing mirrors. One thing I struggled to comprehend prior to taking the car out for a spin was the doors – what there is of them – as they are designed without windows.

The car's designers want

The car of the future? The Renault Twizy is certainly different!

drivers to feel at one with nature while whizzing around and take in city life – this turned out to be quite exhilarating until a heavy downpour when I had to mop the seats before getting in. It's definitely the model for extroverts who like to make a statement – I found this out within seconds of driving onto a main road. Drivers, cyclists and pedestrians would stare and sometimes even stop what they were doing to look as I drove by. I basked in the attention for the first hour or two; however, afterwards I pined for the anonymity that comes with driving a burgundy Vauxhall Astra. The Twizy seems to be a bit like Marmite in that passers-by were keen to tell me whether they loved it or hated it!

I found the more I drove it the more I fell in love with its simplicity, though I imagine the honeymoon period would have worn off after a few months or even weeks. I loved the little details about the vehicle including how it felt driving off from traffic lights or a parking space – so smooth, and it picked up speed instantly. The doors were also a hit for me, making me feel as though I was in my very own micro sports car as well as the noise the indicators made which sounded like a small bird tweeting away in the car. However the deal breakers for me were some of the basics really – lack of storage and security. Speaking as someone who loves to shop I think I may eventually struggle with the lack of storage space in this car – with two small glove compartments on the dash board and a compact area behind the passenger seat, which I managed to fit one bag of food shopping in.

The other worry for me was that if I were to spend around £7,000 on this car I'd be concerned about leaving it anywhere that was not a secure garage as people can just reach into the vehicle and tamper with it or even open the doors and sit inside.

Otherwise, the Renault Twizy is certainly a car of the future and is fun but possibly a little impractical – though I think it holds promise for the electric vehicle sector.

Twizy: Great for city fun.

Halfords may do driving tests

DRIVING tests could soon be available from branches of car store Halfords, the Government announced this week.

Tests might also be conducted in future at some universities, while there is also the possibility of involvement by the Fire and Rescue Service. Halfords has been chosen as a preferred partner by the Driving Standards Agency (DSA) as part of its plan to provide driving test premises away from traditional test centres.

Tests will continue to be conducted by DSA examiners within the scheme which focuses on 21 locations in five different areas – Glasgow, Manchester, Worcestershire, Kettering in Northamptonshire and Watford in Hertfordshire.

Road Safety Minister Mike Penning said today:

"It is vital that public services are as open and accessible as possible. This initiative is a great example of how working with partners in the public and private sectors can help to ensure that we offer people the best possible service wherever they live. "Our aim is to provide all driving test candidates with a local service that is convenient as well as being cost-effective."

Halfords chief executive David Wild said: "We want to help motorists wherever we can, so we look forward to working in partnership with the DSA to provide a first-class service for drivers taking their tests."

However, it may be that there will be fewer people taking their test soon, since a new Government survey has discovered that two thirds of young people, who cannot drive, are discouraged by the rising cost of insurance once they have passed their test. "The insurance industry is faced with the dual challenge of making young driver insurance affordable but keeping young people safer behind the wheel," said Nigel Lacy, co-founder of Young Marmalade.

This summer has seen the launch of Intelligent Marmalade: a high-tech scheme that installs in-car technology which monitors acceleration, braking, cornering and speed to help build a profile of the driver which the company can reward with cheaper premiums.

"Everyday I hear young drivers complaining that they are safe drivers and it is one or two bad apples that escalate the cost of insurance for everyone.

Intelligent Marmalade gives them the opportunity to prove their driving skills and save money," said Lacy. Purchasing a new car under the Intelligent Marmalade scheme can work out more than £5,000 cheaper because Young Marmalade receives significant discounts from car manufacturers through bulk purchasing and they pass on these discounts back to the young driver in reduced premiums.

"We are aiming to monitor an individual's driving habits with the next generation of in-car technology and reward the safe majority with reductions in normal premiums by 40 or even 50 per cent," concluded Lacy.

Davis haul in vain

RUSS Davis took four wickets, but it was not enough as Haverhill's Sunday first team lost by an agonising four runs against Sudbury in the Hunts County Bats Suffolk League, Division One.

Thanks to Saturday's downpours, the track was very wet and green, so it was a surprise when Sudbury won the toss and decided to bat.

Joe Woodley and Dan Poole opened the bowling for Haverhill and soon found some movement and swing, and Poole removed overseas pro Kandage Fernando with a beautiful yorker that slammed into the base of off stump.

Woodley trapped Darren Batch leg before in the next over, and Poole then dismissed the Sudbury captain.

Davis then came into the attack and blew away the middle order with some high-quality full, swinging deliveries. He was helped by some good catching from Liam Botten, Woodley and Carl Bradford as he picked up 4 for 18.

At the other end Mark Radford claimed a wicket as Sudbury fell to 69 for 8, but a long and arduous partnership lasting 16 overs ultimately made all the difference.

BEN Shannon and Josh Ruthven starred as Haverhill under-14s took advantage of a short window of good weather to beat their Royston counterparts – gaining revenge for a defeat earlier in the season.

Royston batted first, and opener Robert Hall anchored the innings with the top score of 21.

However, the Royston batsmen struggled against Haverhill's tidy and accurate bowling attack, the pick of whom was Shannon, who claimed four wickets.

He was ably supported by Sam Street, Will Bailey, Ben Eames, Ruthven, Thomas Baker and Scott Bishop, who all applied pressure on the Royston batsman.

Mattie Kaminski also deserved special praise for picking up his first wicket, while wicketkeeper Paul Jenkinson looked in fine form behind the stumps.

At the end of the 20 overs, Royston had set Haverhill a tricky 81 runs to win, in ever decreasing light.

Skipper Ruthven and Will Bailey opened the batting

Shannon to fore as youngsters beat the weather for Haverhill and started building a steady momentum.

Ruthven was joined by Shannon and then Angus Parsonson as the score moved on to 62 for 3 after 13 overs, with Ruthven unbeaten on 31.

The heavens then opened, and no resumption was possible, but Haverhill had done enough to win on run-rate.

Woodley (2 for 19) and Anthony Phillips took the last two wickets, but Sudbury had clambered their way to 105 all out off 38 overs.

Haverhill started positively in reply. Dan Pass, fresh from his half-century the week before, started in his usual steady manner, while Bradford started scoring freely and briskly until he tried to force the issue once too often and was bowled for 14.

Phil Dingley then fell first ball to a quality spinning delivery and Haverhill were 25 for 2.

This seemed to be a similar pattern for Haverhill as they lost wickets at regular intervals just when victory seemed within their grasp. Pass fell caught for 12 and Phillips was undone by Fernando's slower ball.

However, Luke Youngs was holding firm and Haverhill reached 70 for 4.

But Batch and Fernando ripped through the lower order, with good bowling allied to poor shot selection undermining the Haverhill innings.

Once Youngs fell for a brave and well compiled 25, the game was almost up, and when Radford went for two, they were all out for 101.

In Division Three, the seconds lost to Tuddenham II, being bowled out for 80 in response to their opponents' 172 for 7.

There were no Haverhill sides in action on Saturday because of the wet weather.

■ The only game to be completed in the Adams Harrison Midweek League last week was at Ickleton in Division 3W, where Linton regained the top spot from Mill Green by totalling 146 for 3 and then holding the hosts to 102 for 8.

In Division 1W, Sawston were close to victory when the heavens opened at Haverhill, with the leaders needing just six to win.

Portway on top

■ ANGLING: Thirteen anglers battled it out at the latest Haverhill club match last Sunday at Long Pond in Clare.

At last the wet weather held off for the day and many of the larger carp could be seen cruising around the lake in the sunshine. Most of the anglers chose to target these by fishing a pole line tight to the lily pads, some with better luck than others with Nick Pluck snapping his pole on one of the larger fish in his swim.

Warm seemed to be the order of the day, with Alan Portway taking first place on peg nine with 19lb 15oz, just 2oz ahead of Peter Griggs using the same method on peg 12.

Griggs was seen earlier in the match using a sausage for bait, but it was worm that saw him catch the biggest fish of the day at 15lb 15oz.

Nick Pluck finished third at peg six, using cat meat to claim a weight of 18lb 5oz.

■ There will be an open match at Haverhill floodpark on Sunday, with the draw at 8.30am and fishing from 10am to 4pm.

Anyone interested, please contact Danny Porter on 07595 631478 for further details.

■ TENNIS: Haverhill Lawn Tennis Club have hit the winning trail.

The latest match played by the Men's A team in the Halstead & District League, Division One, resulted in 6-3 win against Lavenham.

Robert Jeffs and Jake

Warner lost 1-6, 6-4, 1-6.

Meanwhile, the B team results have been picking up, winning 6-3 at home to Hedingham C and triumphing by the same scoreline away to Earls Colne B.

The players taking part were David Payne, Ken Hurrell, Tom Sharp, Ray Goddard, Ian Terry, Simon Goddard, Per Strid, Robin Miller and Stuart Read.

Kennedy joins winners' roster

HAVERHILL'S Pat Kennedy was among the winners as a field of 58 golfers representing clubs from across the East competed for the Eastern Region Senior Ladies' Championship at Haverhill Golf Club.

The course, despite overnight heavy rain, was set up to a very high standard by Glenn Norris and his team and presented a tough challenge, which was reflected in the competition scratch score being raised to 75.

Kennedy won the over-50s category with 92-16-76, ahead of Christine Ellis from John O'Gaunt with 94-17-77.

Sue Lines-Poulton from Thorndon Park won the overall prize with the lowest gross score of 81-6-75. The overall nett prize was won by Teresa Wardlow from Stowmarket with 89-16-73.

The over-70s category was won by Rosemary Farrow from St Neots with 83-6-77, while the over-60s category was won by Isobel Maclean from Gog Magog with 86-10-76, ahead of Ann Graves from Woodbridge with 89-12-77.

■ Haverhill Senior Ladies drew their friendly match against Saffron Walden Senior Ladies at home.

■ The Curry Cup match at home against Five Lakes had to be cancelled due to heavy rain and will be rescheduled early next month.

■ Neil Farlie came out on top of a field of 116 in the Medal, which was also the third leg of the Cecil Darken Trophy.

Farlie had an incredible round of 75-11-64, trimming his handicap by one shot in the process.

Results – Division One: 1 Neil Farlie 75-11-64, 2 Simon Cousins 78-12-66, 3 Garry Baird 77-10-67. Division Two: 1 Richard Norden 83-17-66, 2 Daniel Bentley 82-13-69, 3 Mich Calmet 89-18-71. Division Three: 1 Sean Doyle 90-22-68, 2 Neil Farenden 90-22-68, 3 Peter Amies 91-22-69.

The winner of the Cecil Darken Trophy (best two rounds played from May, June and July medals) was Tim Daniels with 71-69-140, just edging out Bill Lancee (70-71-141).

Betts sees positives in Rovers loss

PETER Betts saw his Haverhill side go down to a 5-3 loss to Newmarket Town in their first pre-season friendly on Tuesday – but the Rovers boss took plenty of positives from the match.

New signing Ryan Henshaw marked his first appearance with a goal in the first half and there were encouraging displays from fellow debutants Adam Holloway, in goal, and Perry Moody.

A brace from Dan Cornwell, also in the first half, put Rovers 3-0 up, but five goals in the second half gave Newmarket the victory.

Both Moody and Henshaw are versatile players and can play in central midfield as well as defence.

Henshaw impressed with his goal but his opportunity to make a further impact was curtailed after 35 minutes when he had to come off with concussion following a clash of heads with a Newmarket player.

"It was good to have a look at a few things," said Betts. "In the first half we played really well.

"Although we went 3-0 up and then lost 5-3, I wasn't concerned about the result. I was more interested to see where we are and what the players' fitness levels are.

"I know what we need to do over the next three and a half weeks to make sure we're ready for the first game of the season.

"I need to bring two or three more players in, but after that we should be all right."

Betts is hopeful of recruiting those new additions in the next week or so. In the meantime the team will look to put the mistakes from Tuesday behind them when they take on Soham at home in their next pre-season friendly on Saturday.

Double: Dan Cornwell scored twice against Newmarket.

Good day all round: Gary Ellis got runs and wickets against Cambridge NCI III.

Finals destination for Horseheath

HORSEHEATH will meet Girton in the semi-finals of the Cambridge News 20/20 Walker Cup after beating Cambridge NCI II at home by eight wickets.

And vice-captain Gary Ellis praised umpires Brian Howard and Peter Howard for letting the match go ahead.

He said: "The pitch was dry, but NCI felt the outfield was too wet and didn't want to play. After a lot of wrangling, it was left up to the umpires and credit must go to them for letting us play.

"Nobody got injured or hurt, nobody slipped in the outfield, although it was quite slow, or when they were running in to bowl, so it was the right decision."

The visitors were quickly reduced to 15 for 4 and went on to be dismissed for 101, Ellis taking 2 for 9 and Martin Farrant and Robbie Ketteridge also collecting doubles.

In reply, Dan Goldsmith smacked 45, while Ellis and Andy Edwards were both unbeaten on 25 as the hosts eased to 102 for 2 with six overs left.

NCI skipper Paul Johnston defended his view the game should not have taken place.

He said: "The pitch was in a hell of a state and I felt the umpires were intimidated into playing, because we weren't happy at all.

"We were concerned about players getting injured because it was a quagmire.

"They must have been desperate to play because they didn't want to toss a coin, but if it had been at a Cambridge ground, it would never have been played."

Fulbourn face Histon in the other last-four clash. Finals day is at Clare College sports ground in Cambridge on August 12.
